Mr. Mcliwaine Wanted the Yenezuelan Resolution Rescinded and Recast.

FLOOD IS SEVERE ON HUBARD.

The Senator Charges His Opponent with Using Statements Known to Re False-Tilt Between Messrs.

Mr. McIlwaine, in the Senate yesterday, offered a resolution to rescind the action taken by that body on Thursday in adopting the resolution upholding President Cleveland in his views, as expressed in the latter's message on the Venezuela question. His resolution was defeated, though the vote was close, being 14 to 12.

The Senate was called to order at noon by Mr. Lovenstein, President Kent having left Thursday night for his home. The House amendment to Mr. Wickham's mendment to the resolution of the lower in regard to the President's message, was concurred in by a vote of 19 to 11. Mr. Wickham's amendment, as oublished yesterday, expressed the wish that the statute as to the military disabilities of those who served in the Confederate army be repealed, while the House amendment declares that the Gen-eral Assembly heartily approves the ac-tion of Senator Hill in introducing a bill to repeal said statute.

HE PROPOSED TO RESCIND.

Mr. McIlwaine came in after the mendment had been concurred in, having een detained at a committee-meeting. Ie arose and said he wished to put him-He arose and said he wished to put him-self on record in regard to the resolu-tion as to the Venezuelan question which was adopted Thursday. He said he was absent that day, but had he been pres-ent he would certainly have had some-thing to say in opposition to it, and voted against it. One of the senators informed him that he would not have had a chance to speak upon it, as debate had been cut off by the action of the body. Then Mr. McIlwaine prepared and offered the fol-lowing resolution: "Whereas, the resolution which origi-

"Whereas, it is eminently proper that the action, if any, which may be taken in this matter be in keeping with the disnity of the Commonwealth of Virginia: therefore be it "Resolved, by the Senate (the House of Delegates concurring). That the said resolution be rescinded."

Mr. Hay moved that the resolution be placed upon the table. This was defeated by a vote of it to it. A motion was then made, and adopted by a vote of it to 8, that the rules be suspended that the resolution might come up at once for action. Mr. Mcflwaine, under the rules, was then given five minutes to speak upon ft. "I don't want," he said, "to take up the time of thit Senate long. I do want to impress upon the Senate if I am able to do so, the fact that this resolution, as it goes out, while it may have in it a great deal that is meritorious and proper, is a piece of patchwork that every Virginian will be disgusted with whenever his eyes may rest upon it. We may be altogether patriotic, and yet doubt the wisdom or the expediency of the State of Virginia doing anything to foster a war between the United States and Great Britain. I am perfectly willing to feave that in the hands of President Cleveland, in whose patriotism, integrity, and intelligence I have the utmost confidence. I am willing to leave it with the Senators and Representatives in Congress assembled. I don't think the State of Virginia ought to have anything to do with it. Mr. President, the State of Virginia will not be found backward in doing her duty. Virginia will upon the said fight, she meant fight, and I don't was, not true, and in the right spirit, I say we dugat not flippantly and hastily to go into a thing which may possibly aid in involving this country in war. For, sir, when the State of Virginia will upon the found backward in doing her duty. Virginia will upon the resolution, that has been passed with all its various amendments. I would most heartly advocate an independent resolution offered in Congress, I think that the laws as it now stands casts a stigme upon o

MR. FLOOD'S PLAIN WORDS.

MR. Flood, rising to a question of personal privilege, called attention to an editorial in Yost's Weekly, based on Colonel R. T. Hubard's memorial, which will be filed, contesting Mr. Flood's seat. This was the speaker's first intimation of any such memorial, and he was satisfied it was gotten up for political purposes. Continuing, Mr. Flood said: "I expected nothing fair or truthful from Colonel R. T. Hubard, and, therefore, am not surprised at the falsehoods contained in said memorial. The charge is there made that I aided and confederated in inducing colored persons to become candidates for the State Senate, for the purpose of multiplying the names on the official bailot. This charge is made. Colonel Hubard alleges, upon the statement of necroes. They live on or near his place and stated that they were intoxicated when the transaction they were called on to testify to occurred. I do not believe these negroes ever made such statements to Colonel Hubard—at least, they so stated to me, and it is a question of veracity between Colonel Hubard and his negroes. It is in keeping with Colonel Hubard's political methods to make an attack on a gentleman based on facts from such a source During the late canvass. I had a number of joint discussions with him, in none of which was allusion made to this matter. The last one was after Colonel Hubard had prepared, and from its date, must have sent to the printer, a circular, to which was appended a letter from one of these negroes, connecting my name with the preparation of the papers in connection with his candidacy. In this discussion. Colonel Hubard was effusive in his compliments to me, and said nothing of the matter contained in this circular.

KNEW IT TO BE FALSE.

"I bad an engagement for a joint dis-MR. FLOOD'S PLAIN WORDS.

KNEW IT TO BE FALSE.

'I had an engagement for a joint discussion with him one week later, at Fluvanna court, where he falled to put in an appearance, but sent in his stead the circular with the negro Trent's letter attached. I then denounced the statement as maliciously false, and Colonel Hubard's conduct as I thought it deserved. Soon after this I saw the negro Trent, who told me that Colonel Hubard had written his letter, and told him that if he did not sign it he would be prosecuted. I then published in the press of the district, and in hand-bills, a full statement in reference to the Trent matter, incorporating as a part of this publication the affidavit of those who had assisted Trent at his request in the preparation of his papers of candidacy, in which I denounced the statements it contained as maliciously false, and wound up by charging that Colonel Hubard had written it and Trent had signed it under duress. After this, the controversy between Colonel Hubard and myself, as I understand the ethics prevailing among gentlemen, could no longer be carried on by publication of KNEW IT TO BE FALSE.

the animal holler you might know you had hit him. In conclusion, Mr. Coles said he fest confident the action of the member from Lancaster would never do him credit or himself any discredit in the estimation of the people of his district, this city, or the State.

MIGHT BE ADJUSTED OUTSIDE.

Mr. Hathaway, as soon as Mr. Colestook his seat, sprang to his feet, and, after again quoting and denjing the authenticity of the language in the Times to which he objected, and disclaiming any idea of lashing the gentleman from Northumberland into such a fury by his speech, he said he had only been actuated by a desire to correct a report grossily unjust to himself. He didn't want to act in an ungentlemanly or unparliamentary manner on the floor of the House, and would, therefore, refrain from answering the gentleman from Northumberland in detail, but, he said, personnl matters between himself and Mr. Coles might be adjusted elsewhere. During this heated discussion the members of the House sat quietly in their seats, as though they expected a serious culmination of the affair, but after the ripple the two gentlemen had caused matters subsided, and the House proceeded to business.
